A temporary use self-laminating ID label that sticks to the hard hats and is designed to clearly display useful basic information about a worker such as their name, company, profession, access authority or contact number.

A low-cost solution to assist site foremen, supervisors and managers identify who is on-site at a glance. These labels provide an ideal solution to identify short-term workers, subcontractors or even visitors to a work site. In addition, the laminated ID Label helps workers mark and identify their PPE to promote greater ownership and care.

Workers write their information on the ID Label, before sealing and protecting the information with a transparent laminate film that is waterproof and withstands abrasion. An additional label highlights the presence of the ID Label on the helmet.
